SEARCH OF SEA BY PLANES AND SHIPS FAILS TO FIND MISSING HAWAII FLIERS

POST-SCRIPTS By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

The Inca rebellion runs out of sling-shots.

How much better it would have been for Ban Johnson's culture if he had enjoyed the advantages of the environment in which Bucky Harris, the coal mine boy, spent his youth.

"Hope, like the gleaming taper's light,
Adorns and cheers our way;
And still, as darker grows the night,
Emisses a brighter ray."

An unfounded tale of hope reports the safe landing of Miss Doran and her two pals, as her mother refuses to give way to despair. Oh, where is my wandering girl tonight! Five still missing.

The average farmer's time is given a value of a cent a minute, which is darned good pay for whittling and pitching horseshoes.

We gather from all this confusion over the 10,000 unnamed streets in Stamboul that it's almost as hard to find your way around there as it is in Boston.

A star of the type identical with our sun explodes halfway up the zenith, and if that had happened to old Sol there wouldn't have been any Post-script written about it, as we would have been too busy putting on our wings.

The first of the American Legion boys reaches Paris, and as they say in the Navy: "Here's to our wives and sweethearts — may they never meet."

Boss Louman says that next to a Seminole village in the Everglades Detroit is the wettest city in the country, and we had always supposed it owed its enormous increase in population to the automobile industry.

A group of Rapid City flappers make some interesting reading for Hartford, Conn.

The pesky one-man street car has even slowed up the Public Utilities Commission.

Senator Jim Watson might have added that nobody is going to be able to deliver any Southern delegates until Jimmy Reynolds comes back from Scotland and mournfully unlocks his desk.

This raises the highly interesting speculation as to just what foot-loose Southern delegates at the next Republican national convention will be worth, on the hoof.

"I knew him when"—the President makes in an out-of-the-way corner of the world the most interesting find you can turn up—the old-timer who knew your father.

Since a possum is hardly dignified enough for the embellishment of a cathedral, we suggest that the sculptor now adorning that noble pile go back in his imagination to the time when the bison, the elk, the deer and the bear roamed the wooded heights where this splendid temple is being reared.

Senator Bruce does a brave thing in analyzing nullification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments before an audience in the wet-drinking, dry-voting, law-enforcing South, and he might have gone farther and asked with what right Dixie insists upon keeping booze and ballots the exclusive property of the white man by the simple expedient of enforcing one amendment and ignoring two.

Mr. Dunford, of the Antisaloon League, regards prohibition as having been inevitable from the adoption of the Constitution, "precisely as Puritanism in England regarded monarchy as done for on the very eve of the restoration of Charles II. Does any sane person believe that if the Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Eighteenth amendments had been insisted upon in the Constitutional Convention the United States of America could have been organized?"

The North Carolina woman who was struck by lightning and still lives is in a position to appreciate how the G. O. P. feels since Mr. Coolidge's recent bolt hit it.

The present is an excellent time for wealthy enthusiasts to quit offering prizes for other people to risk their lives.

WAS LAST SEEN MONDAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 18.—Wearied and disengaged from 36 hours of fruitless search for L. S. Ashley, Nick-Jack cave guide and explorer, who has been lost in the dark depths of the cavern since early Monday, the fifth rescue party returned to the mouth late today with the report that they had found no further trace of the missing man.

The veteran Hoosier politician, however, after a friendly word for the numerous "good men" in the Republican party who aspire to the presidency, made it plain that he does not think the situation has shaped up much as yet. He admits he is anxious to find out how it is shaping. What Indiana will do, Senator Watson said, he did not know. He is generally credited with a purpose to get the Indiana delegation for himself, but would not say this was his purpose. He referred to both Lowden and Daves as having much strength in Indiana.

While he has not committed himself in any public utterance, the impression here is that when the time comes Senator Watson is likely to be found vigorously supporting Vice-President Daves if the latter gets into the race. He regards Daves as strong with the soldiers, the German-Americans, the business men and the farmers.

Sharp Campaign for South.

There will be a sharp campaign to get Southern delegates on the part of the different aspirants, in the opinion of Senator Watson. Nor does he think President Coolidge will control the Southern Republican leaders. He predicted they would be looking to the incoming President rather than the outgoing one. He made no prediction as to whom the President would support for the nomination, but in answer to questions he indicated the Special Cable Dispatch.

Pairs, Aug. 18.—The first large contingent of 234 American Legion convention delegates and their families has arrived in Paris after debarking from the liner, President Harding, at Cherbourg. They all wore brightly colored caps denoting State delegations and on arrival marched beneath the fluttering flags of the two countries.

Mme. Margot Cazeau, of Paris, was waiting at the dock today and saw there, for the first time, her three grandchildren. She embraced again and again the daughter who had not returned to France since she married an American soldier, E. N. Peterson and went to New York after the war.

For most of the contingent it was their first sight of France in nine years.

They left the boat singing "Over There" and were met by the mayor of Cherbourg and the American consul.

Many French people and former Poles were present to see old friends.

Talk With John Coolidge Makes Five Girls Happy

Hot Springs Flappers Invite President's Son to Dance At Country Club—"I'd Like To," He Says, But Looks Longingly at Golf Course.

Hot Springs, S. Dak., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Five charming Hot Springs flappers tonight are the happiest and proudest girls in the Black Hills. They are the first of the expectant host to get John Coolidge, the President's son, into conversation.

With their arms around each other's backs, the girls surrounded John on the porch of the Hot Springs Country Club today and told him he ought to come down to the club some night when there is a dance.

"I'd like too," John assured them and then, looking out over the picturesque golf course, added that he would like to play on it. He told them he had been playing quite a bit of golf in the East this summer with his friend, Russell Wood, of the Secret Service.

The flappers who showered their smiles on the President's son were the Misses Forest Mosier, Ruth Barker, Helen Eastman, Ella Phillips and Dora Bruce.

"Gee, I wish he'd come down some time," chirped the petite Miss Barker.

"I'll bet he is a good dancer."

Another of the younger set shared in today's honors. Miss Dorothy McMaster, 17-year-old daughter of the Sioux Dakota Senator, sat at President Coolidge's right at the luncheon table.

Erwin to Take Off Today for Hawaii, in Effort to Pick Up Missing Men.

Waikiki, Island of Maui, Hawaii, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—An Associated Press representative returned tonight from Kaena, where it was reported the plane Miss Doran was found.

There were no traces of the Miss Doran plane.

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—A message received tonight from William H. Clark, a prominent resident of Palis Island of Maui, said: "The object sighted this afternoon was not the Pedlar (Miss Doran) plane. It is supposed to be a fishing boat."

A previous message from Mr. Clark had said definitely that a plane had been seen and a Japanese fishing boat dispatched to rescue it. The later message was taken as setting at rest his first report.

San Francisco, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The Examiner's Honolulu correspondent reported that the biplane containing Miss Mildred Doran, J. A. Pedlar and V. R. Knope, had been found on the Island of Maui. All occupants of the plane were safe, the correspondent said.

The correspondent said that the plane was washed up at Honoma Bay near Kaena.

Rewards Are Offered.

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Supplementing the huge mobilization of naval vessels and Army and Navy airplanes in the search for two missing planes of the Dole flight race from mainland to Hawaii, James D. Dole tonight offered a reward of $10,000 for discovery of the occupants of either of the lost machines, or $20,000 for discovery of both of the crews.

The president of the Hawaiian Pineapple Co., who posted prizes in the 2,400-mile air race, put the additional thousands at the disposal of those attempting the rescue of the four men and one woman whose planes failed to reach land at the end of the race.

William F. Maloaka, of Flint, Mich., backer of the airplane Miss Doran, today offered a reward of $10,000 for the recovery of the occupants of the plane, dead or alive. This brought the total amount offered for the recovery of the missing Dole fliers to $30,000.

Nowhere in the 2,400 miles of ocean rolling between the California coast and the Hawaiian Islands in mid-Pacific friends were hoping—some praying—that the two land planes would be found, their courageous personnel awaiting rescue. The most optimistic asserted that in fair weather the planes might float for days, citing emergency supplies and rations that had been taken aboard before the fliers took flight from Oakland Tuesday shortly after noon.

Those Who Are Missing.

Those it was hoped would be found were Miss Mildred Doran, young and pretty school teacher, of Flint, Mich., a passenger on the plane bearing her name, and with her Pilot J. Augie Pedlar, of Flint, and Navigator Vilas R. Knope, lieutenant of the United States Navy. On another plane, the Golden Eagle, it was hoped would be found Jack Frost, pilot, and Gordon Scott, navigator, both of Los Angeles.

A fleet of 42 vessels of the United States Navy put to sea to search for the planes and the five daring fliers who risked their lives in the longest air race on record. A score of merchant ships plying between mainland and islands also took up the search.

The whole route of the flight from the California Coast to the Hawaiian Islands will be patrolled by the naval vessels, some of which moved off early today, following the great circle of shipping, the line of flight the planes were to have taken.

Back and forth across the line the Navy's vessels will zigzag in order to search thoroughly, it being possible that the planes might have veered from their course, or drifted after dropping into the sea.

About the Hawaiian Islands, however, the Navy's main search by surface

CROSS-CONTINENT AIRPLANE EXPRESS PLANS ANNOUNCED

American Company to Transport Packages Coast-to-Coast in Two Days.

BIG FLEET OF PLANES IS READY FOR SERVICE

Will Be Expansion of System Inaugurated in 1925; Free Insurance Provided.

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Inauguration on September 1 of an airplane express service from coast to coast, which will cut the railway shipping time in half and will cost less than air mail rates for packages, was announced by the American Railway Express Co. today.

Packages up to 200 pounds each may be carried from the Atlantic to the Pacific in two days at a cost of approximately 50 cents a pound, occupying not more than 50 cubic inches. The minimum charges for one package will be one dollar.

John M. Cowie, president of the company, first indicated his intention to establish an auxiliary air service when he signed a contract November, 1925, with the National Air Transport to carry express between New York and Chicago via the Dole Line. Inauguration of this service awaited the date, September 1 of this year, when the National Air Transport takes over the New York-Chicago air mail route formerly operated by the Government.

Large Fleet Available.

In the meantime Cowie decided to extend the service from coast to coast and contracts have been signed with the Colonial Air Transport to carry express between Boston and New York, the Boeing Air Transport to carry it between Chicago and San Francisco, and the Western Air Express between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

Under the new contracts with the Government and the same planes will transport mail and express. The schedule will be the same as the present air mail.

More than 100 planes will be available on express lines, and in the bulk of express at any other point at any time exceeds the capacity of the scheduled carrier, an extra section will be run, just as is done on the railroads. The express restrictions are as to weight and size, but no animal or packages will be carried. There will be definite limitations concerning "balloon express," the technical term for light packages of great bulk. No shipment valued at more than $5,000 will be accepted.

Basic of Rate Calculation.

The charge for air express will be figured both by weight and size, and while the scale is not yet definitely decided upon, it was said that the expense to the shipper would be about $10 for a 10-pound package occupying not more than 2,000 cubic inches in space between the York and Chicago. Air mail rates on such a package would be $22.

Preparations are being made by the express company to supplement the express service furnished by air express by the use of its own vehicles between airports or landing fields and each stop on an air route. Special delivery at destination by express automobile truck will be arranged, and vehicles will be available at points of arrival, so that service at points of arrival will be made available where practicable.

The air express will carry $50 free insurance for each package, and additional insurance may be bought at the rate of 15 cents per $100 value.

Plane Miss Doran Built To Float Indefinitely

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The biplane Miss Doran, one of the missing participants in the Dole air race from Oakland to Honolulu, would float indefinitely if forced down on the ocean, Herbert Hughes, manager of the Buhl Aircraft Co., builders of the plane, said today.

"The gasoline tank on the Miss Doran would support the plane if it were empty," said Mr. Hughes. "The tank was equipped with a 10-inch valve by means of which the tank could be speedily emptied by the pilot and the closing of the valve would make the plane a sort of life preserver that would keep the ship afloat indefinitely."

"The buoyancy of the empty tank would support more than 2,700 pounds. The Miss Doran, with its gas tank empty and without passengers, weighs 1,100 pounds."

Governor, in Airplane, Is Lindbergh Escort

Wichita, Kans., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—With the State's chief executive as his trail blazer across the Kansas skies, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh came to Wichita today in his monoplane Spirit of St. Louis. The transatlantic flier was welcomed on the flight from Kansas City by another plane bearing Gov. Ben S. Paulen.

A crowd estimated at 40,000 cheered Col. Lindbergh at the airport, on the streets as he was escorted through the city and at Riverside Park, where he was greeted by Gov. Paulen, Mayor A. J. Coombs and others. He will leave tomorrow morning for St. Joseph, Mo., where he is scheduled to make a brief stop flying from there to Denver.

Capt. Courtney Silent On Start of Flight

Southampton, England, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Capt. Frank T. Courtney has given no indication of his intended course and he would not confirm tonight reports that he might start tomorrow on his transatlantic flight. He also has refused to confirm the general supposition here that he intends to take the Azores route instead of the great circle route over the North Atlantic.

It is understood that the captain's plane is kept constantly prepared for a quick departure whenever weather conditions seem favorable to him.

Aloha Plane Near Disaster; Brushing Water in Flight

Note Found in Cockpit Discloses Crew Prepared to Abandon Ship and Take to Lifeboat. Navigator is "Fed Up."

Wheeler Field, Honolulu, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Paul Schluter, who navigated the airplane Aloha to Honolulu, said today his aviation experience was limited to his ride with Martin Jensen the Aloha's pilot. He has had plenty of experience as skipper of a steamship and he likes that kind of transportation.

Schluter says he plans to fly again, but not over so much water:

"We came so low once," said the navigator, "that our wheels touched the water. That's too near the ocean for me. I want to be at least 10 feet above it, and still better, on the bridge of the ship."

Schluter displayed a blister the size of a dime on the palm of his left hand worn there by his long siege at pumping gasoline by hand. He was still something cramped from the position which he sat during the long flight, but said he was otherwise feeling "pretty fit." He said:

"I wasn't in the best of condition to start the flight. I was about 20 pounds underwater and was not feeling very well. Then, too, I hadn't slept for a couple of nights because of worry over the compasses."

Jensen also had a difficult time because he hadn't time to install an oil pump and was forced to sit in the cockpit and blow through a small tube into the oil tanks during the

CHAMBERLIN HOME TOWN GREETS FLIER WARMLY

Hundreds Stand in Downpour at Denison, Iowa, to Welcome Returning Hero.

WON'T WORK FOR LEVINE

Denison, Iowa, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—A gay-haired mother and father today enjoyed the greatest thrill of a lifetime—they saw the hometown folks of their son, Clarence Chamberlin, New York City biplane flier—with a warmth that would eclipse receptions he received in Europe.

The same crowd, not so large nor pretentious, perhaps, those which welcomed Chamberlin's "Chink" when he landed in Germany, gave him a real greeting among home folks.

From the time the Chamberlin family arrived with wife, mother and father, pulled into the home depot aboard a special car, the parents of the now world-famous flier took a back seat. They were content to see the folks with whom they have lived and worked for years, literally take their son into their arms and welcome him.

Koennecke today was unable to make his final trial flight because his propeller, which he had detached for readjustment, did not attach from the hub.

The crew drifting in the seaplane, living on short rations. The water supply lasted them until the sixth day, after which time a still carried for the purpose was put into play and probably saved their lives.

To the foresight and insistence of a woman who obtained the still and rushed it aboard the plane, just before it left from San Francisco Bay, credit is given.

Wood was chipped from the trailing edges of the lower wings of the plane and dried for use as fuel in the still.

Chamberlin did not disclose who his associates would be in his probable air line ventures. He indicated, however, that they did not include Charles Lefine, backer of the Columbia transatlantic flight, when he said he had a colonel's commission, an official tribute of the State. The Army honored him by sending the Fort Des Moines Band to add to the homecoming.

Wool Gathering Pays, Chief Shearer Finds

SAN ANGELO, TEX., Aug. 17 (A.P.)— Wool gathering is not generally considered a lucrative occupation, but it is for Ignacio Andrade, of Del Rio, Tex. Andrade is chief of a union of sheep-shearing captains who shear most of the 26,000 sheep and the 2,500,000 goats in Texas.

The sheep shearers' union is a thorough one. Virtually all of the shearers are Mexicans. They work under the direction of about 20 captains.

A shearer can handle from 100 to 150 animals daily and one shearing outfit will shear from 1,200 to 1,500 pairing an old machine."

Farmers' Time Given Cent-a-Minute Value

ITHACA, N.Y., Aug. 18 (A.P.)— Most farmers spend at least half an hour a day up to 1 cent a minute, advises Dr. George F. Warren, director of the New York State College of Agriculture.

"Probably no other single mistake on the part of Americans, and especially American farmers, causes so much loss as does loss of time," Dr. Warren writes.

Shearers now spend a dollar's worth of time saving a dollar's worth of goods. One can't afford to spend ten dollars' worth of time repairing an old machine."

Man Discovers Girl Arranges His Wedding

BANGOR, ME., Aug. 18—Discovering to his astonishment that his marriage intentions had been published in the newspaper, Bangor young man hastened to the City Clerk's office, where he found that a young woman he knew had made all the legal arrangements for him to be married to her. There was no report of the interview which followed with the bride.

tions and distrust would disappear

In this conference the gratitude of the Filipino people would be on trial and American history and traditions would stand as symbols.

"To delay the floor of the press or of the Senate," he continued, "will not lead us to a solution of the problem. On the contrary, it will serve to agitate and confuse public opinion without any practical result."

"America's interests in the Far East and the national interests of the Philippines demand immediate action," he said.

"The situation is such that the most opportune moment to undertake the task of attempting to solve it."

"There is a consensus of opinion that the present political arrangement is not yet satisfactory. It creates difficulties which are greater than those which it is designed to remove."

"The British analogy.

"It is the little states which cling to the League of Nations with, at times, an almost embarrassing affection," added Count Sforza.

Speaking of the newly created Baltic states, he predicted the eventual formation of a Baltic Union.

"We have the right to think that the Baltic union," he said, "will end by assuming a common juridical form, maybe that kind of a commonwealth where each state will retain its sovereign rights to the full, something like a confederation, starting from opposite standpoints, the shape of the British dominions is taken."

This Baltic microcosm, Count Sforza added, reproduces all the causes of fear and hope, all the interests and ideals, which are being spread over the whole of Europe, and the difference that for the older nations of Europe the obstacles of long historical traditions, of feeling and thought make progress far more complicated.

A friendly and dispassionate discussion of the Philippine situation by committees representing Congress and the legislature of the islands was suggested today by Commissioner Pedro Guevara, speaking at the institute as a means of reaching an agreement on the Philippine problem. "With the common aims of mutual welfare in mind," he said, "recrimina-

FULL BENCH RULING IN SACCO CASE WILL BE RENDERED TODAY

If Adverse to Doomed Radicals, U. S. Supreme Court Will Be Sought.

VANZETTI'S SISTER DUE IN THIS COUNTRY TODAY

Neighbors Will Rebuild the Bombed Home of Juror in Celebrated Trial.

Boston, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The decision of the full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court on a petition for a writ of error in the Sacco-Vanzetti case and on exceptions taken by defense counsel, Justice George A. Sanderson, of the Supreme Court, and Judge Webster Thayer, of the Superior Court, will be made public tomorrow morning.

The four justices constituting the full bench in Boston had adjourned the writing of their decision today and delivered it to the official recorder of Supreme Court decisions. The recorder told the newspaper men who had thought the document might be given out until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. He added that the decision would cover about five typewritten pages.

Arguments on the exceptions by Arthur D. Hinman, chief defense counsel, and Attorney General Arthur K. Redding were made on Tuesday before Justices Henry K. Briley, presiding; Edward P. Pierce, James B. Carroll and William C. Wait. The exceptions were to Justice Webster Thayer's refusal of a new trial and to Justice Thayer's refusal of a new trial, a revocation of sentence and a stay of execution. At the close of the arguments defense counsel petitioned the full bench for a writ of error.

Washington Appeal Planned.

Should the decision be adverse to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, whose respite from execution for murder expires on Aug. 29, defense counsel have indicated that they will begin action in the United States Supreme Court. Their plan is to file a petition for a writ of certiorari with the clerk of the Supreme Court at Washington.

Michael A. Musmanno, Pittsburgh attorney associated with the defense, said today that he would take this petition to Washington. At the same time it was considered probable that defense counsel would ask Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of the United States Supreme Court, to do the same in his home in Beverly, for a stay of execution.

Dr. Joseph I. McLaughlin, State prison physician, on his daily visit to the prisoners today found Vanzetti in a cheerful mood, saying he was "feeling fine." Sacco said he was not feeling very well.

"Doctor," he remarked, "you are giving me too much to eat."

"Well," replied the physician, "you don't have to eat all that is sent you. Eat only what you want."

McLaughlin said Sacco probably had eaten too heartily after ending his prolonged hunger strike and that this had affected his digestion.

Warden William Hendry said there was no trouble with the mental condition of either Sacco or Vanzetti.

Sister Will Arrive Today.

Vanzetti's sister, Miss Luiga Vanzetti, is due to arrive in New York tomorrow on the Aquitania. She is coming here at the request of her brother and will meet him at the docks. Sacco's wife, Mrs. Rose Sacco, and members of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee,

A request that Gov. Fuller appoint an expert psychiatrist to examine Celestino Madelios, under death sentence for murder, determining whether he is mentally deficient, was made by Mr. Deiros' counsel, Joseph Linhares, today.

Madelios' execution has several times been delayed because of his statements regarding the murder for which Sacco and Vanzetti are under sentence of death.

At his trial relatives testified that there had been insanity in the family and that Madelios had been subject to epileptic fits.

While in prison he asserted that members of the Morelli gang of Providence, with whom he was associated, committed the murders of which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted.

Easton, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Residents of Lewis McHardy's home town today got underway a movement to rebuild the residence wrecked early Tuesday by an explosion believed to have been caused by a bomb. Mr. McHardy served as a juror in the Sacco-Vanzetti trial nearly seven years ago.

General Strike Asked.

Circumstances calling for a world-wide strike next Monday, to protest the scheduled execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, were issued tonight on stationery of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee.

A protest strike planned a week ago last night failed to materialize when specific orders were not issued. The circulars issued tonight read, in part:

"A call has been sent around the entire world for a world-wide strike next Monday, August 22, in case all legal means have failed up to that time to save our innocent brothers from the electric chair. We hope that as many representatives of labor and fraternal organizations as possible will respond to this call."

Move for Madeiros Made By Charge of Portugal

(Associated Press)

The Charge d'Affaires of the Portuguese Legation called at the State Department yesterday to request that the communication from the Foreign Office, addressed to President Coolidge, asking for clemency for Celestino Madeiros, under death sentence for murder and one of the witnesses in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, be transmitted to Gov. Fuller, Commissioner of Corrections, for consideration.

It was assured by department officials that this already had been done.

The Portuguese president based his request upon the fact that Portuguese law does not permit death sentences and that, therefore, he feared a bad impression might be caused in Portugal if Madeiros was executed.

The charge d'affaires yesterday pointed out that Portugal had concluded several treaties with foreign countries, except Portugal, which gave him the right to demand that the death penalty be suspended.

One official said, however, that no such treaty existed with the United States and that while all foreigners would be given the benefit of American judicial procedure to prove their innocence, they would also be subject to the full consequences of American law, if found guilty.

Borah Asserts Protests Should Not Be Heeded

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the United States Senate, tonight telegraphed Miss Jane Adams, Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee.

SACCO-VANZETTI JUROR'S HOME BOMBED

Louis McHardy, a juror in the Sacco-Vanzetti trial seven years ago, and his wife and three grown children, were blown from their beds Tuesday by the force of explosives planted at the corner of their home in East Milton, Mass. Timbers of the front porch were strewn about the lawn. A general view and a close-up of the wreckage are shown.

PROHIBITION SLOW TASK ABROAD, DRIES CONCEDE

"Pussyfoot" Johnson Asserts America Is Becoming Really Temperate.

ENGLAND DRINKING LESS

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Prohibition in European countries is an accomplishment not to be looked for for a long time, in the opinion of delegates to the Congress of the World League Against Alcoholism in session here.

While "Pussyfoot" Johnson, veteran dry crusader, believes that prohibition of beer is a success, foreign delegates seeking information regarding conditions in America were dubious of the outcome of such far-reaching methods in other countries.

Conditions, of course, are not perfect. Mr. Johnson did not dare "bunk" to say that the American people are drinking more today than they did before prohibition, and he declare that the young people are drinking more than they ever did.

Even the Rev. Henry Carter, secretary of social welfare of the Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal Church, England, and Dr. F. H. Otto Meiss, head of the German Federation Against Alcoholism, declared local option appeared on them to be the best solution of the liquor problem.

Drinking of alcohol in England has decreased 40 per cent in the last ten years, due to the increased cost of beer, the limitation of areas for selling and the general economic condition of the country," Dr. Carter said.

Dr. Meiss admitted it is as much drinking in Germany as formerly, but declared it was being combated by education.

Rain fell throughout the day, making a morass of the track. Nevertheless, there was a large crowd in attendance.

A remarkable feature of the show today lay in the fact that, despite the water and mud, not a single rider was unhorsed.

About 150 horses were entered in the various events of the day. The first event was for draft horses, and a score of the big fellows took part. This was followed by the hunt for hunters. Thirty-four of these graceful animals paraded before the stands.

The Clarke Oaks, regarded as the class for the entire Virginia Valley, was the closing event.

Results of today's contests were as follows: Heavy draft mare and foal—Henry Russell, Berryville, first; S. C. Childs, Royston, second; and A. M. Morris, Gaylord, fourth.

Two-year-old entry—W. Bell, first; C. E. Norman, Purcellville, second; and T. G. Tapscott, third; H. L. Bell and Longaberger, fourth.

ASSAILANT PUT IN JAIL

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Aug. 18.—Sloshing around a track covered with water and mud, Rosy Jester, 32, wife of Clay Brotemarkle, is in Allegany Hospital here, while Lambert is in jail at Petersburg, W. Va. Surgeons say the bullet twice passed through the woman's left arm, breast and liver. There is little hope of her recovery. Members of the Brotemarkle family, who live near Petersburg, Mo., 12 miles from Cumberland, say that their visiting Mrs. J. F. Chamberlain, of the Mayfield section of West Virginia, and were starting out this morning on a huckleberry picking party when the revenue officers, R. A. W. Sager, former sheriff, William H. Bell, of Berryville, W. Va., and Lambert, came along.

There was a cry by the Chamberlain children. "Here comes Sager," which has been a sort of alarm signal to many that section among certain citizens "get under cover." Emery Muller, young brother of Mrs. Chamberlain, ran into the house, and this caused the officers, who became suspicious, to stop. They found a bullet in the brotemarkle car. Sager then proceeded to handcuff Brotemarkle when Mrs. Brotemarkle emerged from the house with a gun, according to Officer Dyche. Lambert, meeting her, fired on her shot in close range.

The woman was brought away by Officer Dyche, in Brotemarkle's car, while Brotemarkle was taken to Petersburg, where he gave bond on charges of liquor possession and pistol carrying. Lambert he hurried to the bedside of his wife.

After the shooting, following a remark by Lambert, Mrs. Chamberlain, it is said, smacked the officer in the face.

THE HONOLULU AIR RACE.

There is reason to believe that some of the fliers in the Honolulu free-for-all made poor preparations for such a perilous undertaking. Experience has shown that a flight of that length requires most careful preparation and a nicely adjusted balance of all factors, mechanical and human. It is the last adventure that should be risked with uncertain planes, scanty supplies, or inexperienced pilots.

Two of the planes, carrying five persons, are missing. They have no means of making their location or condition known to the rescue vessels that are now going out along the long lane between San Francisco and Honolulu. In that stretch of 2,400 miles disaster in many forms is possible. The fact that one of the missing individuals is a woman intensifies the public anxiety, but at the same time it raises the question whether it is not high time for airplane promoters to rule out amateurs. If airplane flights are to degenerate into "stunt" performances, in which harebrained individuals are eager to risk their lives in inadequately equipped planes, the public will have a right to interpose a veto, as the public must foot the cost of searching parties.

Every ocean flight, thoroughly planned and skillfully executed, is of advantage to the new science. But there is nothing to be learned from the accidents to amateurs who fly in poorly equipped or badly managed planes. Their flights are a dead loss, whether they arrive or die. The occasional success of such fliers is too often capitalized in meretricious "publicity," which tends to degrade aeronautics to the level of hog-calling contests and Hollywood divorce marathons.

THE PRINCE AS A RANCHER.

Reports from Calgary and Alberta indicate that the Prince of Wales is just as much at home on his ranch as he is in St. James Palace or on the deck of the Renown. The prince has demonstrated that he is a "mixer," and that he learned early in his adolescent days that the proper thing to do when in Rome is exactly as the Romans do. The "E. P." ranch is not a country show place. Just whether or not it is a paying venture has not been ascertained, but the prince is a breeder of high-grade cattle, sheep and of draft horses. His present stock consists of 125 short horns, 140 Hampshire and Wiltshire sheep, 35 Dartmoor ponies, 12 Percheron and 15 Clydesdale horses.

It is said that the introduction of pure-bred stock into Alberta by the future King of England has done much toward creating a spirit of rivalry among his neighbors, with the result that the standard of excellence of the live stock on the surrounding farms and ranches has been wonderfully improved. A dispatch from Calgary reports that he is up in the morning with the rise of the sun, always eager for his breakfast, and perfectly at home among the men on the ranch. He has learned ranch life and knows how the pioneers won their fight against natural obstacles. This knowledge and sympathy can not fail to be useful to the world hereafter.

ARMY PLANS REVISED.

The mobilization plans of the War Department are undergoing revision. Although it is less than ten years since the World War ended, it has been found no longer practicable to maintain the skeleton plans on a six-army basis. The figure has been cut in half. The reduction means an entire readjustment of plans and strategy in the event of war. The problem is a difficult one, since those in charge of the Army must work out in time of peace every step that would be essential to the safety of the Nation in time of war.

Among the proposed changes is one that would reduce the number of reserve officers by several thousand. The War Department was unable to bring the commissioned strength of the reserve up to the 175,000 men authorized under the defense act. The present figure is above 100,000. Under the three-army program the services of only 70,000 reserve officers would be required. What is to become of the additional 30,000? It is proposed that the reserve officers be weeded out, either by raising the standards so high as to make them a barrier for men in civil life, or by calling a halt to all promotions. Men familiar with the reserve corps say that either method would accomplish its purpose.

Such a course might easily do the Army more harm than good. Over a period of several years every effort has been made to interest men in the reserve corps. Thousands of men who attained some degree of military efficiency during the World War have pledged themselves to return to the service in the event of an emergency. Many of them have taken such additional training as was offered them. Any process of selection or forceful means that the War Department might now employ to reduce the number of reserve officers could only antagonize the great body of these men. The advantage of having the veterans enrolled lies all on the side of the War Department. It would be better if they could receive training periodically and keep abreast of the progress of military science. The fact that this can not be done offers no excuse for telling them that the services they have offered voluntarily are no longer required.

EVOLUTION OF TAMMANY.

One college professor comments in serious vein on the ease with which the younger generation of Tammany leaders fit into tuxedos and high hats. A colleague pays tribute to the personal character of Judge Olvany, grand sachem of Fourteenth street. The progress of Mayor Walker across the ocean and into London attracts more attention and front-page space than the journeys of a Cabinet officer. A leopard may not change his spots, but something, certainly, has happened to the tiger.

It is not necessary to go back many years for a different picture. A decade ago college professors might have discussed Tammany, but not because of its gentility. Two rugged fists were not so long since considered of more utility among Tammany men than the social niceties. A European voyage with the ambassadorial flavor which marks Mayor Walker's progress could not have been, for the good and sufficient reason that it would never have entered the head of any of those who then controlled the order's destinies. Even had such a project been suggested, it would have been dismissed as irrelevant to the main issues in life-control of New York City.

Tammany now looks to broader fields. Its viewpoint is no longer bounded by the rivers that surround Manhattan Island and the Borough of Brooklyn. It took long years for the Tammany horizon to extend as far as Albany. The goal now is Washington. It was, however, necessary for Tammany to learn to speak the language of the rest of the State and then of the Nation. Broadway and Main street failed to understand each other as long as the former clung to its argot. So Tammany, under the pressure of its major ambition, changed.

The change brought tuxedos to Fourteenth street and made high hats fashionable on days other than the 17th of March. It produced Mayor Walker, whose ability to fit into any company and make Tammany as attractive as his own personality can not be surpassed. All of these things now work in behalf of Gov. Al Smith, who, in his turn, reflects credit upon Tammany Hall.

ANOTHER MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

The identity of the submarine derelict U-2 will probably remain a mystery forever. This boat was sighted 1,200 miles west of Honolulu on August 6 by the American freighter, Liberator, and she is probably now "10,000 fathoms deep" in the water of the Pacific, for the Liberator's crew, after photographing the hulk, opened her hatches to sink her.

This is the first submarine that was ever found drifting aimlessly on the surface of the seas.

Schooners, brigs and barques, have in the past been reported from time to drift in the ocean lanes and serving as menaces to navigation. Up to the time that an agreement was effected between the maritime nations of Europe and the United States such derelicts were simply reported by the ship-masters who might have sighted them, and were noted month after month on the pilot charts. But now all such hulks are destroyed as soon as reported by the gunboats of the nation nearest to the point on the sea where the hulls are seen.

The strange thing about this drifting submarine is that no navy has reported the loss of such a vessel since the close of the war. It is, of course, possible, but unlikely, that she was one of the undersized craft that were lost during that war, and it is even possible that she drifted as a wreck from as far away as the North Atlantic, where so many of her sisters were "spurious gesehen." She has gone now to Davy Jones' locker, and probably nothing will ever be known of her crew or her nationality until the last trumpet shall sound.

AS THE TIDES MOAN.

The recent death of Judge E. H. Gary recalls an old saying, that "great men die on the ebb of the tide." The steel magnate set sail for the beyond at 3:30 a. m. on August 15. The tide tables of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey show that this was near the time of low tide at New York on that day.

Judge Gary's place in contemporary history will not depend on the state of the tide at his passing. The coincidence merely illustrates the basis of an old belief in connection with ocean tides.

A certain stock breeder uses the Coast Survey's tide tables faithfully, claiming the state of the tide at the time of conception determines the sex of the offspring. A physician uses the tide tables to fix the time of beginning certain surgical operations. A Wall street broker plays the market according to a system he has worked out, which has tidal forces as its basis.

The times of high and low tides are predicted in advance by using what are called "harmonic constants"—series of computations which approximate and interpret mathematically the movements of sun and moon. Using tide predictions as a basis for achieving certain desired results is, therefore, simply a dependence on planetary influence. It is counting on the stars to further one's projects.

This, of course, is not much more than astrology. Thus, scientific tide prediction extends its activity from legitimate usefulness into the field of superstition. A volume of scientific tide tables becomes a Napoleon's dream book, and astrology rubs elbows with astronomy in the halls of learning.

REVOLUTIONARY REMINISCENCES.

The anniversary of the battle of Bennington was celebrated last Tuesday, 100 years after that fatal event. It was at Bennington on August 16, 1777, that Burgoyne, the British general, who had started out to divide the colonies, received his second setback.

The first reverse came when he was defeated by the colonials at Fort Stanwix and Oriskany. Then followed the battles of Saratoga, which utterly crushed the army of Burgoyne and resulted in his surrender at Schuylerville.

The defeat of Col. Baum, of Burgoyne's army, bent on the capture of the supplies stored at Bennington by the poorly armed and indifferently disciplined American forces, so heartened the colonists that "Bennington" might be considered as the turning point of the conflict. It had an important bearing on the subsequent campaign that ended with Burgoyne's surrender.

It was not on the exact spot where the battle of Bennington was fought that the ceremonies of commemoration took place last Tuesday, but on the battlefield of Walloomsac, over the State line in New York, which battlefield is now a State memorial reservation. There was dedicated by the State a remarkable bronze relief map of the whole territory, which will remain a graphic exposition for future generations of the scenes enacted 150 years ago.

On the same field has been placed a New Hampshire memorial to Gen. John Stark and the men who served so gallantly under him. The focus of the celebration, as recorded in the Troy Times, was in the parade and pageantry in Bennington, in which the soldiery and citizens of Vermont, New Hampshire and New York united and the governors from New England participated.

"There is glory enough in the battle of Bennington for the inhabitants of the three States and others whose ancestors there made common cause for the establishment of the republic and in which they played so important a part," said the Troy paper. "The sesquicentennial celebration today should serve to focus patriotic interest in the historical events there enacted and to preserve not only the physical markings there erected but the precious heritage of loyalty to the liberty and independence of the Nation which they there helped to establish."

GRADE-CROSSING CASUALTIES.

During the first four months of 1927, 668 persons lost their lives in grade-crossing accidents, according to the reports filed by the railroads with the Interstate Commerce Commission. This is a record of more than five deaths per day which may be charged to carelessness.

In addition to the 668 who lost their lives, 2,062 persons were injured, more or less seriously. "Stop, Look and Listen" signs are posted by nearly all the railroads whose tracks cross the highways at grade, and the American Railway Association has been, and still is, conducting a nation-wide campaign in an endeavor to impress upon the public the necessity for greater care in passing over the grade crossings. In some of the States, too, laws have been enacted for the abolition of such grade crossings, but this can only be accomplished gradually and by the expenditure of fabulous sums. New York State has begun the abolishing of grade crossings, and within the next five years nearly $500,000,000 will have been expended for this purpose. A portion of this is to be borne by the railroads, of course, the State will bear its share and the counties and towns must also shoulder a portion of the burden.

More than 22,000,000 automobiles are now in use in the United States, and the number is increasing every year. Every driver is in possible danger of death when he approaches a grade crossing. If he is careless no one else can save his life.

INDUSTRIAL TESTS.

Few industries are now without their proving grounds. Manufacturers no longer are willing to put products on the market without first satisfying themselves that they have to sell will deliver the anticipated service. The public is familiar, of course, with the tests made with automobiles, in which normal driving conditions are approximated over thousands of miles to determine the wearing qualities of a machine and the value and worth of improvements. By means of such experiments the life of the average automobile has been increased several thousand miles.

The same general practice is followed in other industries. The telephone subscriber, for instance, accepts the set that is installed in his place of business or residence as a matter of course. Gradual refinements have been made during the period that marked the transition from the wall set to the one now in use.

No change was made until "lifetime" tests had been completed. New type transmitters were not put into service until scores of them had received a message containing all of the common sounds thousands of times. Phonographs parrot their phrases into the transmitters over a period of several weeks, and if any defects are discovered corrections are made.

Receivers are dropped automatically onto hooks, hammer blows strike the instrument, the cord is tested, the wearing qualities of the felt base established. The result is that the telephone certainly typifies durability, even if it does increase occasional wrath.

These tests are a part of the "machine age." Without mechanical means it would be impossible to ascertain in limited period of time whether or not an article will give a long and useful lifetime of service. That such precautions are taken is conclusive answer to those who insist that mass production and machine standardization have led to shoddy output.

AIR RAIDS ON LONDON.

The first day's exercises of the air defense forces engaged in testing out certain portions of the general scheme for the defense of London against hostile bombers began at 6 a. m. yesterday, and by the evening eight raids had been carried out with varying measures of success says the London Times of July 26. The day bombers flew out to sea and came over the coast again from points as far east as Aldburgh in Suffolk and as far west along the south coast as Havant, while the defending air force from a series of sectors which together form a protective ring round London.

It is difficult in a series of exercises covering half a dozen counties or more and carried out at heights of 15,000 feet to estimate accurately the fortunes of war, but such a term as "success" is not used to describe the results of these exercises, until the detailed report of the experiments with the two sides have been studied, but the balance seems to have been in favor of the attack.

In the first raid of the morning, No. 11 squadron, flying Hawker Horsley day bombers, crossed the coast at Havant and flew to their objective, the Duke of York's headquarters, Chelsea, without being intercepted, although they passed through a sector patrolled by No. 41 squadron, but on arrival at Chelsea found their target hidden. Still, they must have navigated well, for at 10:05 a. m., the observer at the target spotted the squadron at 15,000 feet, only 300 yards from their objective.

A second raid on the same target by No. 12 squadron, flying fast Fairey Fox day bombers, also came over at 10 a. m., and once more the target was hidden. Here again, the nine machines came in and left without being molested, although No. 32 squadron were watching for them from 9:20 to 11:27 a. m. It is perhaps pertinent to add that in real warfare the fact that one desired target was not found would not prevent the bomb-load being dropped over London generally.

DOUGLAS, DEMOCRAT, TO ENTER ARLINGTON RACE AGAINST REID

Opposition to Party Nominee
Will Be Made as an Independent.

PUBLICITY DRIVE PLANS ARE MADE BY CHAMBER

Auto Caravan to Shenandoah
Highway Meeting to Depart Wednesday.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 306. Chardon, Va.

Considerable excitement was thrown into the ranks of the Democratic party of Arlington County last night when William W. Douglas announced he would oppose the party nominee, Hugh Reid, by running as an independent Democratic candidate for the office of delegate in the general assembly.

Douglas in announcing himself a candidate said he did so after having been requested by friends to make the race.

Born in Washington in April, 1861, he came to Arlington County with his parents, and since that time has lived in Ballston.

With thirty years of active practice as a member of the bar of Arlington county, nine years as president of the Arlington Trust Company at Rosslyn, he is one of the leading members in its organization, and serving as a member of the board of supervisors of Arlington County during the years 1904 to 1907.

The directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce last night considered the rapid development of Arlington County during the last fifteen months, it being reported from the records of the county commissioners of recent years that during the period there have been erected new buildings totaling $3,000,000 in value, and started a movement looking to an extensive publicity campaign. The arrangements for the campaign will be in charge of the chairman of the committee, J. C. Jones, and will show the many advantages of Arlington County as a residential and manufacturing center.

A. K. Stratton, of the Old Dominion Railway, was elected president of the chamber.

There will be a special meeting and smoker, September 8, for the members of the Real Estate Board, members of the Chamber of Commerce and their friends. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the chamber at the Rucker Building, Clarendon. A special committee, composed of C. W. Pitch and A. K. Brumback, was appointed by the president to make arrangements for the meeting.

Suits for divorces were filed yesterday by Helen I. Smith against Albert R. Smith; Virginia M. Olmsted Lynch against Willoughby L. Lynch; Lawrence Brown and Irene Brown, and Sarah Sullivan Hanspurg against Paul William Hanspurg.

The caravan committee from Arlington County, of which Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers is chairman, to complete plans to attend the annual meeting of the Shenandoah National Park Highway Association to be held at Applewood, near Front Royal, Wednesday, completed its plans at the meeting held at Clarendon last night.

Buses and private automobiles will leave Clarendon Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, and will be met at the end of the trip and have care arranged to make arrangements with Amos C. Crouse, member of the committee in charge of transportation.

The Arlington County Monarch Club met last night at the Ashton Heights Woman's Club. Maj. F. H. Goff, reporting that the bowling alleys in the new Rucker Building at Clarendon would be open to the public the next day and that a bowling league was being formed in the county, the Monarch Club voted to enter the league with two teams. The secretary was instructed to obtain the names of the members wishing to join one team of five and another of ten members.

The directors of the Columbia Investment Corporation last night completed plans to move the company's former occupied by the Columbia Pike schoolhouse. It is planned to remodel the building with a community hall on the second floor, and store rooms on the first floor. Work will be started at once.

Waiting hearing before Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday, W. C. McCormick, who was charged with illegal possession in violation of the prohibition laws, was held for action of the grand jury. He was released on $500 bond.

ALEXANDRIA STORES ARE ASKED TO CLOSE DOORS FOR PARADE

Firemen's Procession Thursday to Be Crowning Feature of Convention.

STOLEN MOTOR FOUND DESERTED AS WRECK

Band Concert to Be Given Tonight by Washington Boys' Band.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU
124 N. Patrick St., Alexandria, Va.

The business houses of the city will be requested to close at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon for the firemen's parade, which will start at 1:30 o'clock, and which will be the crowning feature of the forty-first annual convention of the Virginia State Firemen's Association.

The local executive committee, of which Fire Chief James M. Duncan, Jr., is chairman, and E. E. Lawler, Jr., secretary, has decided to hold relay races next Friday morning at 10 o'clock on Washington street, from Oronoco street to Queen street, a distance of two blocks. The judges of this contest will be William C. H. Wilder, W. E. Wood, Jr., and George A. J. Barron, the latter of Washington. Thomas Moncure will be the starter.

Immediately following the parade a barbecue will be given on the grounds of the municipal swimming pool at the head of Cameron street. It is estimated that 10,000 persons will be served.

A large number of fire companies from outside the State will take part in the parade, of them bringing drum and bugle corps. Friendship Fire Company, No. 2, of Royston, Pa., will bring 32 or 40 men, and the Mechanics Steam Fire Engine and Hose Company, of Philadelphia, Pa., with 40 firemen, a drum corps of 20, will arrive Thursday in time for the parade, making the trip in buses. Two companies from New Jersey and one other from Pennsylvania will be in evidence in addition to their intention of participating. Many of the visiting firemen will sleep on cots in the armory and other buildings, and arrangements have been made to borrow 300 cots from Fort Humphreys.

William Smith, colored, of Washington, who was arrested Monday with ten chickens in his possession and which he claimed to have stolen from another colored man in exchange for liquor, changed his story yesterday in police court and pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing the fowls from Mrs. Mary Rawlings, of King street road. Smith was fined $100 and in default of payment will serve two months in jail. The chickens, which were valued at $10 each, were returned to their owner.

A small sedan stolen from Mrs. W. Rathbone Smith, of King street, was recovered yesterday at Woodstock, Va.

The car was found by Sheriff B. M. Borden, who notified police.

Capt. Haywood Durrer, of Fairfax County, arrested E. Thomas, colored, on suspicion of stealing an automobile found Wednesday by Capt. Durrer, in Chinkapin Hollow, west of the city.

A band concert will be given at 8 o'clock this evening on the grounds of the municipal swimming pool by the Boys' Independent Band of Washington, composed of 90 boys ranging in age from 6 to 16 years.

Lonnie J. Phillips, 40 years old, a carpenter, fell and died at work at the Potters' freight yards yesterday. Dr. B. H. Swain, coroner of Arlington County, issued a certificate of death from heart trouble.

Mr. Phillips, who is survived by his wife and several children, was a native of Rockingham, N. C., and made his home at 1026 Duke street. The body will be taken today to Rockingham for burial.

Mrs. Lucy L. Green, 53 years old, widow of Augustus Green, died Wednesday evening at her home at 619 South Patrick street. She is survived by several children. The body will be taken to Fredericksburg at 11 o'clock Sunday morning for burial.

The body of Mrs. Jennie Bruce, 56 years old, who died yesterday in a Washington hospital, was taken yesterday to Dr. Daniel's mortuary chapel. Funeral services will be held at the home, 1611 A street northeast, Washington, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and burial will be in the Methodist Protestant Cemetery here. Mrs. Bruce was a sister of Mrs. W. H. Bonz, of this city.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. William Kel, who died in Baltimore, were conducted yesterday at Whetney's mortuary chapel by Rev. M. J. Quinn, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Mrs. Edwin F. Keever Dead.

Wilmington, N. C., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Mrs. Edwin F. Keever, wife of Dr. Edwin F. Keever, former chaplain of Lutheran students at Harvard University, died at her home here today. She had been a general favorite. Dr. Keever came here from Cambridge as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Funeral services will be held at the church tomorrow.

D. Holland Moler Dead.

To the Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 18.—D. Holland Moler, 51 years old, prominent stockman and farmer, of Jefferson County, died at his home near here today. Surviving are his wife, five children, mother, four sisters and two brothers.

Meals That Are Really Appetizing

Vegetables and other foods may be ever so fresh when you buy them at the store or market, but if they aren't kept fresh between the time you buy them and the time you serve them, they can not have the sparkle that lures listless Summer appetites. The one sure way is to keep all foods in a good refrigerator, constantly cooled by a plentiful supply of clear, sparkling American Ice.

Pathologists estimate that twelve years hence the native American chestnut will be extinct, and accordingly they are seeking means to offset the ravages of the disease attacking them. Below is the blight canker, one of the worst enemies.

By FRANK L. WELLER.
(Associated Press Farm Editor.)

Twelve years hence, forest pathologists say, native American chestnut will be extinct, the victim of an Asiatic fungus.

Look in the "blights," experts have reckoned, the parasite's growth came to the United States on imported nursery stock. When, in 1904, it was discovered on trees in the New York Zoological Park, chestnut blight, or bark disease, had swept northward, up the Potomac, west to the Appalachians.

Spores were spread by shipments of lumber, by migrating birds, small animals, wind-blown insects, and by air itself. Attacking bark wounds, tiny yellow, orange or brown pustules, buff-colored funnels "fans" girdled the tree trunk and limb, often causing death in one wet season by cutting off all flow of sap.

Pennsylvania sensed the danger when denuded branches and dry, barren limbs thrust themselves skyward.

Through a chestnut tree blight commission the State sought to cut out infected growth. Surmounting the monumental obstacle, infection drove northward, and in 1910 reached the Carolinas. Today there is scarcely a fungus-free tree in the whole area. Conservative estimate places damage at more than $100,000,000.

Completing the march of destruction, blight has passed over the mountains into southeastern Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, last stronghold of a once mighty stand.

It is too late for defense, and by 1940, observers predict, every chestnut in the country will be dead or diseased.

There is hope. Congress has staked $10,000 on the promise of the Forest Service, to investigate its ramifications. He is expected to find, somewhere in Asia, a blight-immune chestnut.

The disease is less potent on foreign stock.

Meanwhile, experiments go forward on the so-called "hairy" chestnut, indigenous to China. Its stature is dwarfish, but at Bell, Md., the Government has found a strain that retains the blight-resistant properties of the Orient and the nut and timber qualities of American species.

Dr. Haven Metcalf, chief United States forest pathologist, expresses the opinion that a combination has been accomplished.

The American chestnut has no rival.

Sturdy and erect, it often grew 140 feet tall. It offered no problem of reforestation.

We don't know where we shall turn for "manna," Dr. Metcalf says. "For years there will be no substitute for chestnut, in any of its uses. We'll take whatever we can get until the market finally settles down to some one type, identity of which is obscure."

France Makes Reply

On Troops' Reduction

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Great Britain has received a reply to two notes sent recently to France on the subject of a proposed reduction in the number of Allied troops in the Rhineland.

The whole Locarno policy of conciliation involved in the Anglo-French diplomatic exchange. It is believed in London that the outcome of the negotiations will be a reduction in the French troops by 5,000 or 10,000, which would be followed by a 10 per cent reduction in the small British force of occupation.

Bessarabia Arrests

59 Spies of Soviet

Vienna, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Disputes between Bucharest, the Roumanian capital, and the Soviet Union about alleged Russian spies in various parts of Bessarabia. The arrested persons, it is added, are thought to be part of a widespread organization.

Soviet Russia has never recognized the claim in the Soviet of Paris of 1920, awarding the province of Bessarabia to Roumania. Bessarabia borders on the Soviet republic of the Ukraine. Reports of fighting on the frontier last April were denied by the Roumanian foreign office.

There was one casualty this morning. While handling a slippery ax, Private T. E. Jones, of Company F, dropped the implement on his leg, and received a slight cut. He was given first aid treatment by Supply Sgt. Leon S. Smith, and later was treated at the camp hospital.

Wrong Guess on Gas Forces Aviator Down

Hobart, Ind., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Running out of gasoline, the plane piloted by Captain Fredrick Giles, British aviator, made a forced landing in a bog, and bridge demolition and rigging, all the while, some of them were landing cards there today rather than hampered in their work. In the afternoon there was a class in the noncommissioned officers' school and one in the officers' school. Also there was a cross country drive.

Had to Shoot Man, Is Girl's Defense

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—While the authorities of Wayne County continued their investigation, Gertrude Card, pretty 20-year-old country girl was held in the jail at Homestead yesterday on a charge of murdering Anthony Shadone, 38, World War veteran, of Binghamton, N. Y., at Poynette, Pa. Tuesday night.

"I had to shoot him. I had to do it. He came after me with a gun to take me away, and I killed him," said Miss Card, when arraigned in court.

Canadian Exhibit

Held Up at Border

(Associated Press)

The Canadian Legion was notified last night that an agricultural exhibit shipped to the Department of Agriculture here had been held up at the border for lack of some documents required.

Information as to the nature of the shipment was not available here and it was arranged that when this was received, either by the legation or by United States authorities, necessary steps would be taken to clear the shipment if the requirements of the customs laws were complied with.

Wales and Brother Reach Pacific Coast

Vancouver, British Columbia, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The Prince of Wales and Prince George reached Vancouver and the Pacific Coast today. They were greeted by Mayor D. Taylor and Capt. A. M. Lecky, D. S. O.

The Prince of Wales inspected a guard of honor at the Royal Canadian Mounted Police barracks.

He then took a walk through the city.

The veterans, however, were joyfully welcomed by old friends, as well as by a number of sweethearts of former A. E. F. men, who awaited the arrival of the boat train at St. Lazare station with ill-concealed emotion.

"Then if we win, all right; if we lose then we have taken every step the law will allow us—we'll then I guess they will just have to take John back. But he is not going until we have tried all legal methods."

"We are all peaceful, law-abiding citizens—and I myself am an officer of the law," Mr. Early stated. "We only intend to do the right thing. We didn't come to compete with the Germans; we didn't come to compete with the French. We simply intend to keep my brother from the hands of the Federal agents. We simply intend to use such means as the law will allow."

Quake in Turkestan Is Called Vengeance

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Charles A. Weber, 64, president of the Louisville and Nashville R. R. Co., and his life-long friend of Henry C. Lee, western politician and turfman, whose death occurred yesterday, died suddenly at his apartment here to day of heart disease.

Born at Madison, Ind., Mr. Weber died at 10:30 a.m. yesterday, 40 years ago. He formerly was identified with the Phoenix Brewery, later becoming connected with the Consumers Co.

Meals That Are Really Appetizing

North Sydney, N. S., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Hurried farewells, crowded wharves and Sydney Harbor blue in the moonlight up the coast to the liner for Premier Baldwin's return to Canada.

There was a last minute civic address and a presentation of an enormous Cherrywood pipe with a 2-foot stem and bowl like a coffee mug. The crowds cheered again and again when the liner caused the pier to rock with his departure and waved adieu. Mrs. Baldwin stood beside her husband aboard the ship and waved to those who were on the pier.

Greeks Are Reported Fired On By Turks

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Two Greek fishermen, who had disappeared from the Exchange Telegraph Co. are reported to have been fired on by Turkish forces at the mouth of the River Maritsa, on the Greco-Turkish frontier.

The fishermen are said to be detained on Turkish territory and the commander of the Greek frontier detachment has lodged a protest and asked for their liberation.

London, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Dwight F. Davis, American Secretary of War, returned to London from Paris this afternoon and paid a call on the Emperor Haile Selassie Saturday for New York. While here he will place a wreath on the Cenotaph war memorial in Whitechapel.

DR. G. W. McDANIEL,
52, DIES IN RICHMOND

Former Head of Southern Baptist Convention Was Fundamentalist Leader.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The Rev. Dr. George W. McDaniel, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Richmond and for three years president of the Southern Baptist Convention, died at his home yesterday. He suffered a stroke of paralysis in his study a week ago yesterday. Members of the family were at his bedside. He was 52 years old.

Dr. McDaniel was one of the best-known ministers in the Southern Baptist Church and took a leading part in the affairs of the denomination. He presided over the convention sessions of 1924, 1925 and 1926. He began his ministry in 1901 in Texas. He had a wide reputation as an orator and also was widely known as an author.

Dr. McDaniel allied himself with the fundamentalist faction in the church and refused any compromise in his beliefs. He was one of the staunch advocates of prohibition in Virginia.

At the Southern Baptist Convention of 1926 he made a fervent appeal to his church on the question of evolution, and his stand was approved by a vote of the convention as expressing the opinion of Southern Baptists.

Father and Son Held
In Dry Agent Slaying

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Tobe Roberts, alleged moonshiner, and his son, Ernest, are being held in the Rock Bridge County jail at Lexington, on charge of murder in connection with the shooting to death of S. M. Wattis, State prohibition agent, who was shot in a still near Buena Vista yesterday.

Reports of the shooting were made here today to Attorney General John R. Saunders. The officers attempted to arrest Roberts and his son, after they had been watching the still for some hours and were awaiting the arrival of the operators.

Roberts ran when ordered to surrender, according to the report, but turned and fired a shot at a short distance with a shotgun, the bullet penetrating Wattis' heart and lungs.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF HELEN OF TROY

A SATIRE ON MODERN LIFE THROUGH THE LIPS OF THE ANCIENTS

By JOHN ERSKINE

CHAPTER III.

"Is mother here?" said Hermione. "Oh, there you are! Father, the most terrible thing has happened. Adraste, the girl, is going to have a child!" said Menelaos.

"You know it? And you can let such a thing happen in your house, and be so calm about it? I was blaming mother in my thoughts as I hurried home—but you knew about it all the time!"

"How could I? I didn't speak so to your father," said Helen. "This is not the first occasion I have had to object to your manner."

"There are worse things in this house than my manner," said Hermione, "and even if you and father don't feel outraged, I am. Even if that girl is to remain with us, after this disclosure, I decline to live here."

"Where will you go?" asked Helen. "I don't know—perhaps to Orestes, as my duty seems to call me. I may be off until the end of the year. But I've tried to be loyal and respectful to both my parents, but we are comparative strangers, and our relation is essentially false. The honest thing for me to do is to marry Orestes at once, and begin over again. In the simple and usual way."

"That kind of talk is very distasteful, daughter," said Menelaos. "I don't refer to your manner toward me; the distressing thing is your lack of sympathy for people in difficulties. Your mother and I have been greatly sorrowed recently. Adraste is the best. I'm not responsible for her, as you would have known had you waited a minute."

"Then prove it," said Hermione. "Put her out of the house!"

"You mean, just put her out to starve or die of suffering?" said Helen.

"Yes—that's what I mean!" said Hermone.

"At times, as I've always remarked, you resemble your aunt," said Helen, "but I never saw the likeness so strong."

"The resemblance doesn't interest me, and I can't admire your attempt to divert the conversation," said Hermone. "This revelation of the conditions in our house has put me beyond patience. Even since that girl came she has been flirting with Orestes, a nice boy, thoroughly unspoiled, until she led him astray. I don't see why we should lend him a good name—I won't lend mine—to shelter him and his vulgar ways."

"Have you talked with her since you heard the news?" said Helen.

"I wouldn't be seen talking to her!"

"Then do it surreptitiously. You could faintly imagine yourself in her place, can you? Abandoned by a man named Orestes, for instance—and become a theme of household gossip?"

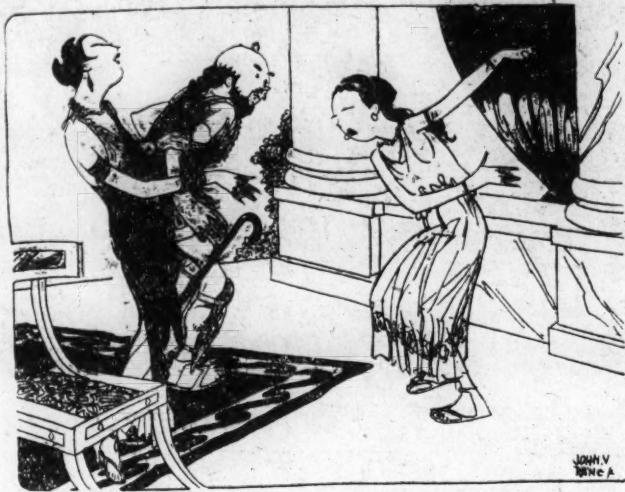

"I certainly can't imagine myself," said Hermone. "You can't imagine me either."

"I shan't try to," said Helen. "The point I would make is that until the thing happened to her, Adraste, like you, could not imagine herself caught in such misery. That's life, daughter. Most of us have had others because we were born in them."

"Did you warn her of this possibility when you were telling her to cultivate the love of life?" said Hermone.

Menelaos laughed.

"I warned her against the love of Orestes, but I did it just as I tried to tell you the love of life, and advised you not to love Orestes. You both, in different ways, thought you

"You mean, just put her out, to starve or die of suffering?" said Helen.

"I don't take your point of view," said Hermone.

"I'm shocked at you, Hermone," said Menelaos. "I'm really shocked. You told me that you and Orestes are practically married, that nothing must be done to separate you. Adraste and Orestes are more married than you are, yet you think they should keep apart at any inconvenience to them or to other people."

"There's no parallel between these people and Orestes and me," said Hermone. "We have done our best to lead good lives. Orestes repeats her words, 'I'm shocked at you, Hermone,' and I'm shocked at you, too."

"'Orestes,' said Hermone. 'She wasn't gossiping; it came about in the most natural way. I stopped in there for a minute, and she had to explain Orestes' absence. She feels very bitter about the whole thing.'

"Did she imply in any way that Orestes had been abandoned in wrong doing?" said Helen.

"Certainly not!" said Hermone. "You can't blame a mere boy, in the hands of such a person. That kind of woman can do what she likes with a man, anyway."

"Oh, I don't know!" said Menelaos. "It depends on the man."

"And on the woman," said Helen. "But tell me, Hermone, did Charitas say what provision she will make for her kind Adraste and Orestes, if he should leave the house—Hermione, I was telling your mother that when you came in."

"Yes, he was. You see, my daughter, how I feel about it now. He was agreeing with you entirely. We haven't had as much murder as we'd like; you and Charitas and Menelaos, the three propes of society in our neighborhood, all wish that kind Adraste and Orestes, if he should leave the house, would be given their right to live. But I'm not committed to keeping the girl here, if another arrangement is better than I. But I'd like to ask you a question. When you entered just now you told us you had hurried in as soon as you heard the news. Who gave you that?"

"'Charitas,' said Hermone. 'She wasn't gossiping; it came about in the most natural way. I stopped in there for a minute, and she had to explain Orestes' absence. She feels very bitter about the whole thing.'

"Did she imply in any way that Orestes had been abandoned in wrong doing?" said Helen.

DETROIT WETTEST CITY IN ENTIRE U.S., LOWMAN DECLARES

Admits Making Beer, But Is Freed by Court

Freedly admitting making 130 quarts of alleged intoxicating beer which he seized in a boarding house which he operates, Michael Trianovich, of Buck Lodge, Montgomery County, yesterday was acquitted of charges of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor by Judge Samuel Riggs, in Police Court in Rockville.

Judge Riggs ruled that Trianovich had no intention of selling this brew, and that he had manufactured it solely for use by himself and his boarders who contribute funds to the maintenance of the house maintained largely for the use of men employed on railroad construction near Buck Lodge.

$1,000 LICENSE FEE PUT ON DANCE HALLS

Montgomery Officials Also Place Swimming Pools in This Schedule.

Operators of places in the suburban district of Montgomery County in which public dancing is permitted, and of public swimming pools where an admission fee is charged, will be obliged to pay an annual license fee of $1,000 under a schedule of fees now in the course of consideration by the board of county commissioners.

The schedule, which must be published for four weeks in county newspapers, affects virtually all sorts of amusement places in Bethesda District, excepting the incorporated towns and special taxing areas, and all of the lower part of Wheaton District, excepting the Town of Takoma Park, and the special taxing area of Chevy Chase View.

The dance hall fee must be paid by restaurants, cafes, inns and hotels in which dancing is permitted. The annual license fee for operation of an amusement park, where charge of admission is made at the gate, is set at $1,000.

Street fairs and carnivals will have to pay $100 annually.

Heider, apparently crazed by liquor, it is said, dashed into the house, exclaiming: "I'll get you," and fired five shots, fatally wounding George. Reidier was held by the coroner's jury on a charge of murder.

George died soon after he reached a Cumberland hospital. Mills and Stevens were wounded in the abdomen. Wilson, who was received at the hospital here, though faces were still blackened from the mummers' disguise, received a bullet wound in the right leg, while Wilson was unhurt.

RAILS SHOW GOOD GAINS; OILS DISPLAY STRENGTH

Stocks Generally Maintain Firm Tone in Reduced Volume of Trading.

UTILITIES SHARES SAG

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Aug. 18.—In a considerably reduced volume of business, stocks maintained a firm tone on the New York Stock Exchange today. The influence of cheaper call money was just about sufficient to keep the market moving, while the general list showed a number of unique gains in the closing of the last few days. The turnover fell to the lowest figure in some time, amounting to less than 1,700,000 shares, as compared with the recent 2,000,000 share days.

The foreign market dealers refused to let go, but the lack of leadership resulted in a deal of drifting about. However, no active stock was noticeably weak and a number were quite strong, particularly the implement groups that had been leaders in the oil and two or three stock stores and a handful of specialties. Net gains, except in one or two instances, were limited to 3 points or a fraction more and few losses extended beyond a like amount.

It was in the industrial and utility groups that the longest individual advance came, Case Threshing Machine shooting up 11 points above its previous close and holding gains into its session. The latter was decidedly active and pointed to a new 1027 top, which 5½ points up. The industrials in chief favor as selling targets, were selected chemical, radio and nearly all the motors, and most of the utilities were included.

Buying of mercantile stocks was well distributed, Sears Roebuck and May Department Stores scoring new peaks and Abraham & Strauss, Gotham Silk Hosey and a couple of others made substantial gains. Monogram and Woolworth were known closed with minor losses. Several of the oils, notably Houston, Atlantic Refining, Phillips and Marland, sold at their highest prices in more than a month. The latter was held very vigorous while it was noted that the stocks were based on latest efforts of producers to bring other fields besides the Seminole under control. The wave of buying had its inception in a sudden burst of activity in Phillips Petroleum, which followed the changing hands of a block of 10,000 shares. This was the highest price levels in weeks. The Standard shares perked up noticeably and other independents like Pan-American and Mid-Continent developed strength. The demand however, seemed to peter out rather quickly.

Railroad shares came to life about noon and some gains were made in short order. During the first two hours, however, the group was quite neglected and no sales were recorded in session, but took to a new 1027 top, which Western & Southern tomorrow next day is expected. Kansas City Southern, as usual, probably will lead off. Taking carloadings during the month ago, the earnings reports should show some falling-off, but the year-to-date figures are still available. Railroad investors are, however, satisfied with earnings, stability of dividends and prospects of the better class of rails. If, as many believe, the rails with investment rating would sell at a 50 cent basis, the value of them still have room for appreciation.

The early August meeting of the directors of the Case Threshing Machine Corporation was postponed to August 25. However, nothing specific for stockholders was decided before the end of the year. Case it is understood, is earning over $300 a share this year. The more optimistic think several dollars will be added to that figure when the returns are all in.

Chrysler, which had been a feature of the market since the time running up sharply in the process of discounting a keenly awaited announcement by the company, turned decidedly sluggish. The statements which came today were rather disappointing than what was to be looked for in anything of a surprise. It merely informed of a change in certain lines and made no reference to anything which might indicate a plan to enter the extreme cost field.

The foreign exchange market was feature by recoveries in pesos and Norwegian kroner, a further advance in German marks and steadiness elsewhere.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—The cotton market was rather nervous and indecisive, but closed with a steady gain, selling up to 20 28 in early trading and closing at 20.01, compared with 19.99 at the close of the previous day. The general market was steady, net points higher to 5 points lower.

The opening was at a firm advanced of 18 to 20 cents on a good crop of 18,500,000 bales. October and January were 30 on the initial buying movement, but it looked as if there had been consideration to take a stand. In anticipation of bullish mid-month currency, cotton prices soon turned easier under realising.

The failure, perhaps, of this early report to bring in more active demand disappointed recent buyers, and offerings became a little heavier on a later part of the market. The market was the indicated crop at 14,335,000 bales. After selling off to 19.78 for October, the market rallied on the detailed weather reports showing considerable rainfall in central and eastern sections of the market. The market was a good one of its earlier loss. But there was a strain of weakness again later under a price which appeared to be coupled with some South cotton sell-off.

The lowest levels of the day were reached in late trading October selling at 19.75.

Traders here with foreign connections reported some buying for European accounts, but the market was rather dead and trade demand was less active than expected. The market was in evidence, although only in small lots.

Private cables attributed the firmness to general buying on the bullish private market, plus reports here shortly after the opening, and said there was a fair business in cotton clothes from Africa.

Exports today, 8,742 bales, making 166,575 total for this season. Port receipts 12,000 U.S. port and 1,000 foreign.

BROWNS SQUEEZE 6-5 VICTORY OUT OF NATIONALS

D. C. Printers
Eliminated,
16 to 15

Chicago Win Puts
Typos Out for First
Time in 6 Years.

Mound City Plays
Chicago Today for Championship.

Special to the Washington Post.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—For the first time in six years Washington will not be involved in the fight for the title of the nation's Printers' International baseball tournament.

This was definitely decided yesterday at Redland Field when Chicago defeated the former champions for the second time and eliminated the latter from entering the title fight. The Chicagoans, however, possessed the offerings of Houdashell and Webb for 19 hits and emerged on the long end of a 16-15 score after one of the most hectic battles of the series.

Although the Windy City aggregation got off to a ten-run lead in the first two innings, the losers rallied in the late frames and, for a while, threatened to dispel belief that they would become the victims of another Chicago setback.

They, however, were unable to stretch their belated rally to the necessary amount of runs required to win and were forced to take their second defeat in three days.

One of the principal reasons for the Washington setback was due to the hitting of Tommy Kuchar, pitcher and first baseman. The all-around star had three doubles and two singles out of his 10 hits and played a fine game on the mound and first, where he compiled a total of 13 put-outs without a miscue.

Bill Strama also was one of the leading characters in the Chicago victory, having contributed four hits out of five times at bat besides hurling quite effectively during his tenure on the mound.

Washington scored 21 hits out of 34 and Kuchar, but was unable to win, particularly because of its seven errors. Three of these were made by Catcher Desper, who had played as one of the best catchers in the series, besides being among the heaviest hitters of the tourney.

By virtue of the win Chicago became eligible to meet the undefeated St. Louis Club for the championship at Redland Field this afternoon.

St. Louis retained its immaculate record by defeating Boston, 4 to 3, after trailing for six innings.

Mrs. Dave Gaut Star
In Western Tourney

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Brilliant golf today marked the third round of match play in the women's Western golf championship at Lake Geneva Country Club and brought into the semifinals women from California, Texas, Tennessee and Wisconsin. Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles, won from Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, 2 up, and, on the eighth green, closed out a penultimate round with Mrs. Dave Gaut, of Memphis, who eliminated Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, of Kansas City, 1 up, in the most sparkling display of golf thus far.

The other semifinal contest will be between Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal of Dallas, who handily defeated Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Chicago, 4 and 2, and Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, who had even an easier task against Marion Turpie, of New Orleans, scoring par for fifteen holes to win, 4 and 3.

Duncan Wins Irish
Golf Championship

Port Marnock, Ireland, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—In conditions which every player characterized as unparalleled in his experience, George Duncan, with a score of 312 for 72 holes, today became the winner of the British Open championship. The winner declared his round of 74 this afternoon was worthy of comparison with his famous round at Sandwich in 1922 when he just failed to beat Walter Hagen for the championship. He said, as a matter of fact, he was playing better today than in 1922.

The rain and wind defeated virtually the entire field today. There were only three rounds under 80. Duncan, including eighteen holes under the playing conditions, furnished phenomenal golf.

T. H. Cotton of Langley Park, finished second with 313 and Jack Smith, of Wentworth, 315, was third. Archie Compton, of Massachusetts, took 40th place, 317, and W. Nolan, Port Marnock, with 319, was fifth.

Bill McInbroy, unattached, American pro, finished the 72 holes in 324, while Larry Nabholz, the only American to enter, gave up the struggle against the elements and retired.

CHICAGO TIES TRAFFIC FOR DEMPSEY

Jack Boxed Week in City 10 Years Ago for $350.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Jack Dempsey boxed a whole week in Chicago ten years ago for the princely sum of $350.

Today the former world's heavyweight champion returned with the prospect of getting $700,000 for 50 minutes or less in his attempt to regain the crown from Gene Tunney in the battle at Soldiers' Field, Sept. 22.

The warmth of the welcome accorded Dempsey traffic in the vicinity of the Morrison Hotel for hours.

"They never looked around me like this when I was the champion," Dempsey remarked, with a smile. "It makes me feel good. Chicago, you know, is the place where I really got started."

Little satisfaction came to him.

Breeding Farm Sold
By Commander Ross

Saratoga, Aug. 18 (A.P.)—Danus Raymond, head of sportsmen, has a group of horsemen who have purchased the great farm of Commander J. K. L. Ross at Vercheres, Montreal.

Heating equipment yesterday bought the site of the Ross disposal sale held in the Saratoga paddock, and shipped him at once to Montreal. It is understood that the Canadian sportsmen plans to create one of the greatest breeding establishments in the country.

After a conference with Leo P. Flynn, his manager, Dempsey decided that he would not go into training at his Lincoln Fields camp until Monday and possibly Tuesday, resting until that time.

The former champion, tanned a deep brown, said he weighed about 204 pounds, which is about 8 pounds above his usual fighting weight. He appeared eager to plunge into his training grind, but said he would do no boxing for possibly a week after appearing in camp.

Dempsey is satisfied that he is in good shape to go into training, expressed a wish that he might weigh four on pounds more.

"Win?" he said in reply to a question. "I'm not only going to win, but I'm going to flatten Mr. Tunney." Ten men got into a flat-top car and was knocked out in a hurry. After this escape it was discovered that he was insane and he was committed to an institution.

Asylum Fugitive Would Box Tunney

Speculator, N. Y., Aug. 18 (A.P.)—When Gene Tunney returned to his training camp here yesterday from a long grind on the road, he was accosted by a mad giving the name of Yeager with a request that he be allowed to meet one of his championship sparring partners.

The appearance of the man started an investigation and it was learned that he had escaped from an insane asylum the night before and walked several miles to Speculator to get to his sparring partner.

Yeager, who had been a man who tried to box Dempsey some time ago at Saratoga and was knocked out in a hurry. After this escape it was discovered that he was insane and he was committed to an institution.

BROWNS STOP NATIONALS, 6 TO 5

Sacrifice Fly in 12th
Gives St. Louis
Ball Game.

Schang, first up, watched four wide ones pass him and Gerber tripped him home. Adams, up for Ballou, fanned, but O'Rourke came through with a single which let Gerber dent the dish.

Speaker stopped the alien advance by snaring H. Rice's hot liner with his gloved hand and beating O'Rourke back to the initial sack for an unassisted double. This bat change brought General Crowder to the home hill.

An error by McNeely, which gave McNeely's got the General in trouble in the fifth. The "Earl of Sacramento" stole second and later Bluege walked, but both runners were left.

Johnson was on the verge of involuntary retirement in the home sixth when the residents scored one and had two more. The final out was Harris in. This tally was coined from singles by O'Rourke, Sisler and Miller. Harris allowed the Old Master to finish the round, but sent Braxton to the peak starting the next stanza.

The southerner found himself in trouble almost immediately. Schang greeted him with a single. Harris' error gave Gerber life, and the aisle was packed when Braxton's throw to third of Crowder's sacrifice was late.

O'Rourke's looper to left was too short to give Schang a chance to score after the catch. When H. Rice fanned it looked as though Braxton would wiggles at the head, but he was not far from the border to Speaker. It skidded past the first sacker, however, went as a double, and two runners scored, knotting the count at 5-all. With mates on second and third, Braxton lined to Sam Rice to end the frame.

Crowder walked Braxton to open the Nats' ninth, but this meant nothing. On Rice's attempted suicide the pitcher was slow getting started and was assailed from behind. Braxton then took matters in his own hands and fanned Sisler.

Crowder, who had granted but two batters, had given up six, while the fourth was touched for one by Gordin with one dead in the tenth session. McNeely walked, but both were left. Ruel lofting weakly to H. Rice, while Williams made a fine catch of Bluege's looper, which was a foul ball.

In the second extra session Braxton singled with one dead, and held his base while Sam Rice was fouling to Williams. Harris then coaxed a pass, putting the responsibility up to Speaker, and the bus boy, Gordin, was also walking, filling the bases. The Goose worked the count to 3 balls and 1 strike, fanned one, and then fled to Miller for a disheartening third out. Schang singled opening the home half. Braxton mates were able to push him no further than the plate.

McNeely started the twelfth with a one-baser, but got no farther than his own efforts carried him. Braxton easily disposed of H. Rice in the lower half, but was ticked off at the top half, the infield and took this with Williams doubled off the right-field wall. Marberry then relieved Braxton and was ordered to pass Miller, filling the sacks. Mellino then sent a long fly to right which let Sisler count the winning run.

T. T. Keane Seniors Will Play Petworth

BAN JOHNSON DISCIPLINES HARRIS

League Head Slurs
Manager, Fines
Him $100.

This indiguing in personalities, in view of the relative power of Johnson and Harris in baseball is nothing more than the natural result of the fact that the league head, who apparently is taking the "king can do no wrong" attitude. From his throne he has gone out of his way to not only cast a slur on Harris' upbringing, but to classify the whole action of the Big State as being made up of a game of sideshows. And should the Nat-leader reply in the same tenor he would probably draw a suspension.

Harris tonight forwarded his check to the league's Chicago headquarters, and presumably the case is closed, although Boss Buck is considering paying President Johnson a visit and thrashing the matter over again. The Nats go to the Windy City on Wednesday to stop off this invasion of the West.

A rainstorm, just before hostilities were to begin, forced the players off the field and kept the game down to a paltry 300 or 400 here this afternoon. Later the sun came out and conditions were ideal until the last few innings. With a slight breeze blowing and the day anchoring down, however, Harris made a last-minute shift in his pitching plans and turned his pitching job over to Walter Johnson. This means that Hollis Thurston will get the call in the final game of this set tomorrow, with Walter Stewart probably opposing him.

Sammy West's stay off the Nats' hospital list was not a long one. He pulled Charley horse on the Harris' bench, but did not get in the game again until yesterday and then hurt himself again when Bennett, the second Brownie to come to bat, lined one past him.

Sam tried to stay in the game, but again injured himself when he came to the tee in the second inning and now he will have to remain inactive for another week or more.

The news from the Harrisian camp is that Joe Judge is just about ready to resume his duties at first. The heavy going again kept him idle today.

The home team made a threat in its half when Crowder's scratch hit, Reeves' bad toss to Harris with a double play in sight, and H. Rice's useful effort put men on third and scores with one left. Braxton then took matters in his own hands and fanned Sisler.

Crowder, who had granted but two batters, had given up six, while the fourth was touched for one by Gordin with one dead in the tenth session. McNeely walked, but both were left. Ruel lofting weakly to H. Rice, while Williams made a fine catch of Bluege's looper, which was a foul ball.

Tremont to Oppose Falls Church Tossers

Tremont Athletic Club, runners-up of the Petworth League, journey to Falls Church tomorrow to play the Virginia Nine at 3:30 o'clock.

Werner or Jett will be on the mound for the home team, while Petworth or Jones will serve them for the Churchers. All players are requested to report.

Walfords Play Elks In Capital City Game

A crucial game is on card today in the Insect class of the Capital City League. The Walfords clash with the Boys' Club Elks on the Plaza at 11 o'clock.

A defeat for the Walfords will give the Elks the title, otherwise the Walfords have a chance for the flag, as two more games are yet to be played by the second place nine.

Takoma Tiger Nine In Pair of Battles

The Takoma Tigers face an active week-end meeting the Astor Seniors on Diamond No. 4 tomorrow, and traveling to Ocean Hill Sunday to play the team that town at 3 o'clock. Shirley Griffith and Paul Buscher will hurl in these engagements. Manager Waters requests all players to meet at District Line at 1:30 for both of these games.

Circles Want Sunday Game; Practice Today

The National Circles due to a cancellation are without a game for Sunday. The team is also seeking games for next week. With the exception of a few days Manager Andrews is booked until late in August. For games call Lincoln 9892.

The Circles will practice tomorrow at 4:30 o'clock on the Plaza.

Crowder, who had granted but two hits, both to Johnson, since the fourth, was touched for one by Goslin with one dead in the tenth session. McNeely walked, but both were left. Ruel lofting weakly to H. Rice, while Williams made a fine catch of Bluge's looper, which was ticketed a hit as it left the bat.

In the second extra session, Braxton singled with one dead, and held his base while Sam Rice was fouling to Williams. Harris then coaxed a pass, putting the responsibility up to Speaker, who passed the buck to Goslin by also walking, filling the bases. The Goose worked the count to 3 balls and 1 strike, fouled one, and then fled to Miller for a disheartening third out. Schang singled opening the home half, but his mates were able to push him no farther than third.

McNeely started the twelfth with a one-baser, but got no farther than his own efforts carried him. Braxton easily disposed of H. Rice in the lower half, but Sisler was safe on a cheap hit to the infield and took third when Williams doubled off the right-field wall. Marberry then relieved Braxton and was ordered to pass Miller, filling the sacks. Melillo then sent a long fly to right which let Sisler count the winning run.

COMMISSION DELAYS ONE-MAN CAR ISSUE FOR COUNCIL REPORT

Votes to Postpone Decision Until Advisory Group Makes Recommendations.

CITIZENS ARE EXPECTED TO OPPOSE TROLLEYS

Utilities Members Are Held to Wish Further Facts on Proposed Change.

The public utilities commission at its semiweekly meeting yesterday voted to delay decision on the one-man car issue until the citizens advisory council reports its recommendation. What the commission will do then is problematical.

There is believed to be little question of how the council will vote. The burden of discussion at its meeting Wednesday night was that whatever the merits of one-man versus two-man car operation may be, the street car riders do not want the former.

James G. Yaden, chairman of the council, said, when delay was proposed at the close of the meeting:

"I am ready to vote on this question now. If three of you vote one way and three the other, I am ready to cast the deciding vote."

But the council delayed for delay. Yaden did not appear at the offices of the commission yesterday as he said he intended to do, to ask Chairman John W. Chaffee, of the commission, to delay decision for ten days to permit the Federation of Citizens' Associations to hold a special meeting.

Bus Terminal Rejected.

However, it is not believed the council will report within ten days, since it is expected to accept the recommendations sent to 100 American cities. The decision of the commission to await the council's action would seem, therefore, to insure time for Yaden to call the federation meeting.

The members of the commission are said to have weakly concurring in their determination to grant the Washington Railway & Electric Co. permission to buy 30 new one-man cars, retiring 17 old ones and 13 two-man cars from service.

Commissioners made no reference yesterday in his hint at Monday's hearing that he might call another general public hearing. But members of the commission are said to want further facts, and at least one of the members is known to be of the opinion that the problem approached from another direction: that is, with concurrent consideration of economies possible with unified operation under a merger of local transit companies.

The commissioners yesterday voted final rejection of the plan of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. to establish a terminal for the Sixteenth street bus line in Rock Creek Park at Kennedy place and Morrow drive. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 2d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, and the Board of District Commissioners had expressed their disapproval of the project.

Capital Man Is Held In Automobile Death

Leon Amaducci, of this city, was held for the action of the grand jury and released on bail of $1,000 when given a preliminary hearing yesterday before Police Judge John W. Anderson, in Annapolis, on charges of manslaughter growing out of the death of Lawrence M. Ball in an automobile accident near Mount Zion, Md., about a month ago.

According to testimony at the hearing, Amaducci was driving a car which was in collision with one driven by Ball. In the accident, Ball was killed and several members of his party were injured. Following the crash, Amaducci returned to his home in Washington, and later was apprehended here.

Suit for $25,000 Dismissed.

Mata E. Brown, 1885 Thirty-second street northwest, who sued the Brown Stone Funeral Association, trading as W. W. Chambers Co., 1400 Chapin street northwest, for $25,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, has dismissed his suit in Circuit Court here. Attorney Hawken & Hawken, in this case, the plaintiff charged that she had been struck by the automobile of the defendant on March 18 on Wisconsin avenue.

Court Exonerates Orchestra Leader.

Thomas Gannon, leader of the orchestra at the Palace Theater, residing at 1648 Columbia road northwest, charged with simple assault on Harry Heimer, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heimer, 2621 Mount street northwest, was exonerated yesterday by Justice Mattingly in Police Court. Gannon declared that the boy threw a stone at his daughter's eye. He denied the charge that he had kicked the boy.

Suit in Auto Accident Settled.

Katie F. Carroll, 31, a street street, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against Phillip Berman, 733 Eighth street southeast to recover $40,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorney M. F. Browne, the plaintiff said that on April 30 he was in an automobile owned by Berman, but driven by his daughter, Rose Berman.

Man's Leg Broken in Street Accident.

Struck by a street car of the Capital Traction Co. at Twelfth street and Florida avenue, a workman yesterday morning, Daniel Hyland, 55 years old, of 612 Twentieth street northwest, was seriously injured. At Emergency Hospital, he was treated for a fractured left leg and severe laceration of the forehead.

CONVICTED THEATER ROBBER SENTENCED

20-Year Term Is Given Man Identified as Looted Ambassador.

After a 40-minute trial in Baltimore yesterday, James J. Healy, alleged theater robber, was sentenced to serve 20 years in the Maryland State penitentiary and was identified as the man who robbed the Ambassador Theater, Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest, April 1.

Healy was arrested Monday after an attempt to rob the New Theater in Baltimore. He also was charged with assaulting John T. Moore, manager of the theater, and pleaded guilty to both charges.

John E. Gerow, an official of the Ambassador Theater, confronted Healy following the trial and identified him as the robber who escaped from the motion picture theater with $1,900. Oscar E. Downs, local grocer, also identified Healy as the robber and could identify him up to a point with more than $500 on June 1. Local authorities will have to wait a score of years, however, to bring Healy to trial. He told the Maryland court that he came from the Bronx and that the robbery of the Baltimore theater was his only crime.

James G. Yaden, chairman of the council, said, when delay was proposed at the close of the meeting:

"I am ready to vote on this question now. If three of you vote one way and three the other, I am ready to cast the deciding vote."

But the council delayed for delay. Yaden did not appear at the offices of the commission yesterday as he said he intended to do, to ask Chairman John W. Chaffee, of the commission, to delay decision for ten days to permit the Federation of Citizens' Associations to hold a special meeting.

Special Cosmopolitan Committee Selected

Members of the special committee in charge of the night meeting for September were announced at a luncheon of the Cosmopolitan Club in the Lee House yesterday. The committee consists of Robert McChesney, James McKee, Eugene Paravano, Frederick J. Rice, Lawrence Rubel, George McCloskey, Edward Minte, Lewis A. Payne, William Ronsaville and Edward Rule.

John E. Gerow, an official of the Ambassador Theater, who was questioned yesterday, identified the man who was captured as the one who escaped from the motion picture theater with $1,900.

Oscar E. Downs, local grocer, also identified Healy as the robber and could identify him up to a point with more than $500 on June 1. Local authorities will have to wait a score of years, however, to bring Healy to trial. But members of the commission are said to want further facts, and at least one of the members is known to be of the opinion that the problem approached from another direction: that is, with concurrent consideration of economies possible with unified operation under a merger of local transit companies.

The commissioners yesterday voted final rejection of the plan of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. to establish a terminal for the Sixteenth street bus line in Rock Creek Park at Kennedy place and Morrow drive. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 2d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, and the Board of District Commissioners had expressed their disapproval of the project.

Special Cosmopolitan Committee Selected

Members of the special committee in charge of the night meeting for September were announced at a luncheon of the Cosmopolitan Club in the Lee House yesterday. The committee consists of Robert McChesney, James McKee, Eugene Paravano, Frederick J. Rice, Lawrence Rubel, George McCloskey, Edward Minte, Lewis A. Payne, William Ronsaville and Edward Rule.

John E. Gerow, an official of the Ambassador Theater, who was questioned yesterday, identified the man who was captured as the one who escaped from the motion picture theater with $1,900.

Oscar E. Downs, local grocer, also identified Healy as the robber and could identify him up to a point with more than $500 on June 1. Local authorities will have to wait a score of years, however, to bring Healy to trial. He told the Maryland court that he came from the Bronx and that the robbery of the Baltimore theater was his only crime.

James G. Yaden, chairman of the council, said, when delay was proposed at the close of the meeting:

"I am ready to vote on this question now. If three of you vote one way and three the other, I am ready to cast the deciding vote."

But the council delayed for delay. Yaden did not appear at the offices of the commission yesterday as he said he intended to do, to ask Chairman John W. Chaffee, of the commission, to delay decision for ten days to permit the Federation of Citizens' Associations to hold a special meeting.

The members of the commission are said to have weakly concurring in their determination to grant the Washington Railway & Electric Co. permission to buy 30 new one-man cars, retiring 17 old ones and 13 two-man cars from service.

Commissioners made no reference yesterday in his hint at Monday's hearing that he might call another general public hearing. But members of the commission are said to want further facts, and at least one of the members is known to be of the opinion that the problem approached from another direction: that is, with concurrent consideration of economies possible with unified operation under a merger of local transit companies.
